An East Side Reading

Teresa Mei Chuc & Lynne Thompson
Sunday, July 21, 2 p.m. at Flintridge Bookstore

Teresa Mei Chuc was born in Saigon, Vietnam and immigrated to the U.S. under political asylum with her mother and brother shortly after the Vietnam War. She teaches literature and writing at a public inner-city middle school. She has a Masters in Fine Arts in Creative Writing (poetry) from Goddard College, Vermont. Teresa is the author of Red Thread: Poems (2012) and Year of the Hare (2013), a short story in vignettes about her father's struggle with PTSD after the war and nine years in "re-education" camp and its effects on him and the family. She enjoys spending time with her sons and doing simple things like watching the trees, sunrise and fireflies.

Lynne Thompson, a Pushcart Prize nominee, is the author of two chapbooks, We Arrive By Accumulation And Through A Window. Her first full-length manuscript, Beg No Pardon, won the Perugia Press Book Award as well as the Great Lakes Colleges Association's

Vietnam Ghost Stories

Ghost-like beings roam, carrying the bones of the dead, their steps heavy with the weight of fields and fields.
And the dead too – stories Mother tells of the ghost with a long tongue that licks dishes at night.

New Writers Award. A frequent reader on the local and national scene, her alma mater, Scripps College, and Emory University have commissioned her to write new work to complement both a sculpture and dance project. Recent work has appeared in numerous journals including Ploughshares, Sou'Wester, Crab Orchard Review, Indiana Review and Spillway, where she serves as Reviews & Essays Editor. Thompson's latest manuscript, Start with a Small Guitar, will be published by the Los Angeles collective, What Books Press, in the fall of 2013.

last night, I dreamed I was Frida Kahlo

star-tips and tight earth, beaver, pond, blue veronica.
I wasn't Frida but I was just as unfathomable being roots & thistle & blood, bulb of green earth, womb of some winged web-weaver, deep lover, quite still, still stone. In morning's indigo, in the steam and sun of it all,
I was supplicant before oceans, apatite, ideas and lantern-light, unhooked and needle-fine, copper-red, a cosmos
